The contest for the gold medal be-tween the plane pupils of Mr. Emile Levy was decided yesterday. Of thirtyseven, twenty five were contestants, and of these five were declared worthy the medal, and two of the second prizevery handsomely bound copy of "Songa of Life." The rames of the medalists are Carrie Keating, who had practiced eleven hundred and twelve hours in a ession of eight months, less one week; Lizzle Speers, who had practiced nine hundred and seven hours; Luia Good-man, who had practiced four hundred and eight-four hours and forly-five minates; Ida Poghe, who had practiced five hundred and cighty-one hours and for-ty-five minutes, and Florence Gage, five hundred and elevan hours. The winners of the second prize were Martha Trudeau, who had practiced wine hundred and three hours and thirty minutes, and Willie Belie Taylor, who had practiced six hundred and nine hours and fifty minutes. As there was but one medal and one book, the madallists draw for the riza, Miss Paghe being the fortugate winner, and Miss Murtha Thudesu be-ing the winner of the book. The medsi-fiers returned two hundred and one tick-ets each, received from Mr. Levy durng the session as certificates of th du try, and the young ladies for the second prize returned two hundred each The general average of the class is expressed by one hundred and reventy ickets, the lowest on the list having only one hundred and sixty tickets. These prizes do not indicate the proficiency of the pupils auginalists; only the fact that by indust y and attention they have accomplished their lessons, the bi ginner standing as fair a chance for the medal or the book as the most promis-ing or tristic of the class. We congrateste Mr. Levy on the result and the parents of the calldren upon the pro-gress they have made under a master who for his industry and attention to his work deserves the conflience and sup-

The programme gotten up for the occasion tells the tale of merry making and amusement to be indulged in by our people on the above occasion. The park will be brilliantly lighted up with lamps, and every arrangement will be take to give the grounds the appearance of a fairy scene of enchantment. Late in the evening fireworks will be let off which will produce a pyrotechnic display never before seen, and never before attempted in this city. This will be one of the grand of t and will be well worth seeing. At twelv to murder the old lady with whom they had been living. The boy seems to have made some kind of confersion of the matter, but his tales were considerably mixed up, and the woman, his mother, had made an explanation, but the real cause of the attempt to kill Mrs. Hall, is yet a matter of very much doubt. We would state here that Mrs. Haile, although very badly hurt, is still slive, and will probably recover. We would state further that she was not robbed, and no effort made, so far as we could learn, to carry off anything from her
